Foreword

This book is the result of a purpose. How well the purpose has been attained is not for us, but for you to determine. We have had but one aim and that aim was to truly mirror DePauw—to picture, in its true perspective, every activity and interest—to somehow crowd between these leather covers everything that is of DePauw, and finally, if possible, to catch a little of that indefinable something that we call "Our Spirit"—that thing that is more than buildings, more than campus, more than anyone thing, but the sum and substance of all things, at DePauw. To this end we have utilized the best of materials and workmanship and surely the best of our effort, misguided as it may have been. We sincerely hope that The Purpose has been attained and that the 1920 Mirage pleases DePauw today, and that Tomorrow it may serve to make this year at DePauw live again.

Old Asbury Hall

The University = = Its History

Eighty-three years ago the corner stone of Asbury Hall was lowered into place, and the first building of what is now DePauw University was begun.

Five years before, in 1832, the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church had determined to found a school of higher learning in this state. From then on, until 1837, the work of securing funds and deciding on location for the school progressed. By that date, Greencastle had been chosen for the seat of the school and the erection of buildings begun. The school opened the following year under the corporate title of Indiana Asbury University in honor of the great pioneer bishop, Francis Asbury. Its first president was Bishop Mathew Simpson.

The Civil war stripped the college of its men, and the financial troubles of 1883 threatened to close the school. It was then that Washington C. DePauw made the first of a series of gifts to the University, which averted the disaster. In recognition of these gifts, the name of the school was changed, in 1884, to DePauw University.

Having passed through some of the most trying periods of the country's history, and at one time faced with financial failure, DePauw University now stands with an equipment of more than a million dollars in buildings and land, and an endowment of upward of two millions, perhaps more than that possessed by other than state schools in this section of the country.

McKeen Athletic Field

The University - - New Projects

A NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

Perhaps the best news that those interested in DePauw and its athletics have listened to recently is the news that an active campaign has been launched to secure for DePauw a new and thoroughly modern athletic field.

It is the more welcome because it fills one of DePauw's most g'aring needs. Other departments are fairly well equipped. The need for a woman's dormitory, a new gymnasium, and an administration building has been admirably met during the past few years.

At the same time that these improvements have been going on, there has been a marked improvement in the calibre of DePauw's athletic teams. Coach Buss is to be congratulated on the results he has attained in spite of the handicaps that the run-down condition and concrete surface of McKeen Field have imposed upon him. Certain it is that the injuries received by men due to the hardness of the field have seriously weakened the teams, to say nothing of the inexcusability of crippling men who come out to represent the school in athletics. Otherwise, the condition and appearance of the field is run down to the point where it does not reflect any particular credit on the school.

At the annual Football Dinner held at Indianapolis at the close of the past season, the first steps and plans were considered for a new field. Since that time, the Alumni Athletic Board has been actively engaged in securing proper backing for the project, and it is now thought that a new field will be realized in the immediate future.

At the time that this book goes to press, those in charge have refused to divulge any particular plans or information, but there is every reason to believe that the new stadium will measure up in size and completeness with all of DePauw's recently constructed buildings and will lack no feature of modern athletic requirements.

With this added equipment, DePauw teams will be able, in a greater and greater degree, to prove their calibre, and the presence of such a new structure will greatly enhance the appearance of the campus.

The Little Theatre Movement

"NEW PROJECTS"

To bring a realization of the need for a well-equipped "Little Theater" to the attention of those alumni and friends of DePauw who are interested in seeing the college go forward, is the task which the Duzer Du Dramatic Fraternity took upon itself at its annual banquet, January 17, 1919. Following the announcement of its aims, President G. R. Grose, Professor H. B. Longden, Dean Katherine S. Alvord, Professor H. B. Gough, and other prominent campus figures made it known that they heartily endorsed the movement, and would lend their aid in bringing the project to the attention of the friends of the college.

The present auditorium and stage in West College is totally inadequate for the production of plays as they should and can be presented by Duzer Du and other campus groups. Time after time the need is felt for an auditorium which will seat large crowds, and yet combine with it a stage fitted for the production of the drama. Until such an Auditorium can be constructed DePauw will be suffering under a handicap.

A careful observer among students of the drama said recently that he is convinced that "in the theatrical experiments in our universities quite independent of professional endeavor, rather than in the present day professional stage, lies the real hope for the future of the theatre in this country".

Certain it is that with the commercialized stage being flooded with "theatrical offal, offensive to the nostrils"—suggestive musical comedy and lascivious lingerie farce—the responsibility for the future of the dramatic art bears more weightly upon the shoulders of the amateur and the student in the colleges and universities of the country. Indeed, it is not inconceivable that the new trend toward a more wholesome and a more artistic stage will be the result of the work of the amateur collegians.

That time is not so far removed when there were those who refused to grant to dramatic interpretation a place in liberal education. Today, all this is changed, and even the most conservative admit the value of sincere efforts in amateur theatricals, from every viewpoint. Lord Dunsany told Harvard students that "undergraduate dramatics is one of the finest institutions of the American colleges", at the time of his recent visit in this country.

The achievements possible in dramatic study and interpretation on the DePauw campus are limitless. But the realization of these glowing possibilities is halted by a very practical consideration. That stumbling block athwart the path to the development of DePauw's brilliant dramatic attainments is THE LACK OF AN AUDITORIUM AND STAGE ADEQUATE TO THE NEEDS AND POTENTIALITIES OF THE CAMPUS, both now and for the future.

No undergraduate, no group of undergraduates, have the time nor ability to agitate this movement further than merely bringing emphatically to the attention of men and women who are established financially, the need for such an addition. When some alumnus or friend of the institution—some one who has already "arrived"—sees and appreciates the abundant harvest to be reaped as a result of such an improvement, then a real step forward will have been taken, and it will be but a short time until the new Theatre rises upon the campus of our beloved Alma Mater.

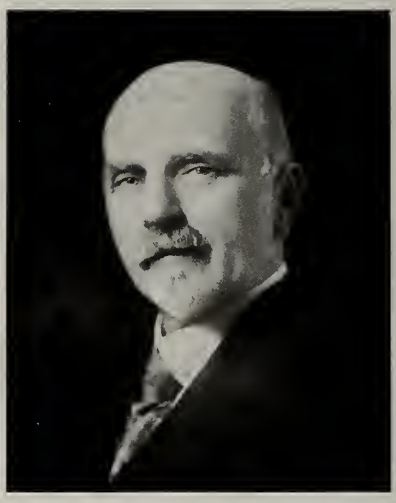
Mr. Edward Rector
Founder of the Scholarship



Prof. H. B. Longden
Administrator

The Edward Rector Scholarship Foundation

The Establishment of the Edward Rector Scholarship Foundation is one of the epoch-making events in the history of DePauw.

When the announcement of this great philanthropy was first made, even those in closest touch with the founder did not fully realize its magnitude and far-reaching effect. In fact it may be doubted if Mr. Rector himself realized the limitless possibilities of the thing he was doing. Sure it is that those charged with the Administration of the Foundation are, with the passing of time, more and more impressed with its growing importance and beneficence. That eminent man who, in making the announcement of the bequest, said in substance that it was the greatest thing that had ever been done for the cause of learning in the Middle West seems most nearly to have caught the vision.

It is through the munificence of Mr. Edward Rector of Chicago that four hundred free scholarships in DePauw University have been established. These scholarships are now open to young men graduates of the High Schools of Indiana who rank higher in character and excel in scholarship, and will continue through the four years' course if the work of the student justifies the continuation. They will cover all tuition and fees, both departmental and special, in the College of Liberal Arts. These fees amount to about $125.00 per annum.

Mr. Rector has established a loan fund from which those honor scholars who actually need it may borrow. This makes it possible for any young man, who wants a college education, to secure it without being compelled to do more outside work than is good for him.

The chief purpose in the mind of the founder was the encouragement of scholarships in the high schools and colleges of the state, and, therefore, its attainment is an honor worth striving for by any young man whether he needs financial assistance or not. In granting the Scholarships the question is rather one of character and studentship than need.

The Rector Scholars

A Scholarship is awarded to any young man graduate from a commissioned high school of the state who takes first or second honors of his class.

In case no such honor student offers himself, the committee on appointment will give consideration to the case of any young man who ranks in the high ten percent of his class, and will award him a Scholarship if, in its judgment, he ranks high enough to justify the award.

A record will be kept of all Scholars before and after graduation, and it is hoped that such loyalty and enthusiasm will be developed that the fact that one has been an "honor student" will be of practical help and inspiration throughout the whole life.

In order to encourage scholarship in the University and to give anyone a chance to become a Rector Scholar in spite of previous work, ten Scholarships will be granted in addition to those given at the beginning of the Freshman year to the ten young men who make the highest number of points in the regular work of the Freshman year. Also one Scholarship will be awarded each year to that student in the Freshman, Sophomore, or Junior class, man or woman, who makes the highest grades in his class.

For the college year 1919-20 forty-eight Scholarships were granted.

They are: Dale Allen, Irwin Armstrong, Henry Arnold, Clarence Baker, James Bean, Clark Beiriger, Gerald Bently, Mark Bills, Morris Bridwell, Kenneth Buchanan, John Cady, L. S. Cole, Robert Cornthwaite, Gilbert Darnell, Russell DeCoursey, Maurice Elliott, Austin Ellmore, Edward Ewing, Wendell Godwin, Walter Gregory, Samuel Hanna, James Hassett, Lewis Horton, Halford Houser, Wilbur Jones, Fred Linville, Neil Little, Marion Lynch, Harold Martin, Thomas Middleton, Albert Paschen, Cohen Pierson, Dwight Pitkin, Ralph Plessinger, William Read, Harold Robbins, Owen Robinson, Louis Rosenberg, Benjamin Rufe, Dewey Sanders, Edwin Sayre, Cecil Smith, Emerson Smith, Delbert Smith, William Strain, George Study, James Sullender. Next year it is expected that there will be at least one hundred and fifty. And by the end of the fourth year most if not all the four hundred Scholarships will be taken advantage of. Only he who can estimate the results of having in perpetuity four hundred young men given the advantage of a liberal education can comprehend the good of this Foundation.

H. B. Longden

In Memoriam

Perhaps never did a keener sense of sorrow and loss settle over the whole campus than at the death of a man much beloved and idiolized by DePauw, Colonel James Riley Weaver, scholar, teacher, soldier, and diplomat.

In 1867, after receiving the degrees of A. B., A.M., and S.T.B., he took a professorship at West Virginia University. Two years later he entered the diplomatic service and for sixteen years held consulships to Italy, Belgium, and Austria. He then came to DePauw, where he taught several years, always the object of the admiration and love of both students and faculty. In 1917 he retired as Professor Emeritus of Political Science, and on January 28, 1920, the victim of advancing years and heart trouble, he unexpectedly and quietly passed away.

Officers of Administration

George R. Grove

George Richmond Grose

President of the University

Doctor Grose received his A. B. and A. M. degrees from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1894 and 1896 respectively. In the same year that he received the Masters degree, Boston University conferred on him the degree of S. T. B. Ten years later Ohio Wesleyan again honored him, this time with the Doctor of Divinity. He then came to DePauw to take the office of President of the University in 1913. Three years later Ohio Wesleyan conferred the Doctor of Laws.

In the capacity of President, Doctor Grose has displayed himself as a man of unusual energy and executive ability. To say that largely through his efforts three of DePauw's most beautiful buildings have been made possible and that its endowment has been increased by a million dollars is only to measure the mere material benefits that his tireless energy has brought to DePauw. The value of the other kind of service can not be measured in such things. An eloquent and earnest speaker his talks have made profound impressions on all who have heard him. An able organizer and executive the metamorphosis both into and out of war conditions was effected with a minimum of confusion. And above all a whole-hearted and valuable friend to every student he has encouraged and materially aided a great number of students to continue their college work.

A very busy man whose time is much in demand, he is never too busy to help anybody from DePauw.

DePauw's Athletics

Backed by several seasons of successful athletic teams, state championship claims, and prospects of a new and thoroughly equipped athletic field in the near future, DePauw's athletic horizon is becoming brighter and brighter.

Time was when DePauw teams were not to be taken very seriously. Grouped, as it was, among the second-rate schools of the state, as regards athletics, the school was producing second-rate teams that did not compare very favorably with those of the larger universities.

A complete change has been wrought in the status of DePauw's athletics. Tiger machines have repeatedly proven that the school no longer belongs athletically among the "second-raters". Today no team in the state expects less than defeat or a hard-won victory from its teams.

Two years ago, state schools as well as the smaller ones began to fall beneath the attack of the Tiger elevens, and last year, although constantly pursued by the injury jinx the warriors of DePauw formed an organization which was not to be scorned. In basketball, the past two seasons have dispelled all thought of DePauw in reference to second-rate athletics. Two years ago Coach Buss's men were the strongest contenders for state honors and this year the "Speed Five" was undefeated except by the strongest team in the Conference which won by a single point margin. Such are DePauw's teams.

Those who wish to see DePauw rank in first place have but to help in the campaign for a new and modern athletic field. That is the one thing it needs.

Coach Edbert C. Buss

Director of Athletics

Coach Buss came to DePauw four years ago at the time of the opening of the new gymnasium. Athletic conditions at the time were not very favorable, in fact, the new equipment was about the only redeeming feature. Athletics were disorganized and lacked faculty cooperation, while rival factions struggled for the use of the floor.

To Coach Buss is largely due the cooperation of students, faculty, and alumni in building better athletics for DePauw. To him also goes the credit for placing athletics on a firm financial basis.

But more than being an organizer, he is a fighting coach, who puts everything into the teams, which have in recent years placed DePauw high in state collegiate sports. A man who teaches and practices clean athletics and a square deal both in dealing with his own men and with his opponents, he has won the respect of both students and athletes.

The Coaches

Coach Bucheit

"Buch" first hit DePauw in September 1918, coming to us after four years work as director of athletics in Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich. Graduating from Lake Forest in 1914 as a four letter man, together with his experience as athletic director at Hillsdale well fitted "Buch" for his position. Through his earnest efforts, an unprecedented interest in inter-mural athletics has been awakened. As a track coach, "Buch" is held in high regard by his men and the student body of DePauw, while his teams are feared by all coaches. A track star himself, he knows his men and is able to get the most out of them. Handicapped by the lack of material and experienced men, "Buch" built up a team that won fourth place in the Indiana inter-Collegiate meet and proved formidable opponents in the dual meets of the 1919 season. Undoubtedly "Buch" will send a strong team into 1920 meets.

Coach Joseph

The problem of a baseball coach is at last solved. In coach Joseph, DePauw finds a real man who knows baseball from A to Z, and who, moreover knows how to teach it. He understands college men and coaches them accordingly.

The new coach came here directly from Terre Haute, giving up the athletic directorship at the Y. M. C. A. there. Before the war he played ball with Des Moines, Iowa in the Western League, During his career there he played third base and behind the bat. To those who understand baseball this is a very significant fact—it is a most valuable asset to a team and especially to the infield, which is by far the hardest to develop.

With everyone working in cooperation we can expect nothing other than a baseball season equal to the glorious basket-ball season of the "Tigers".

Assistant

In his capacity of Student athletic Manager, "Bob" has been in close touch with every branch of athletics and has been of great value both to Coach Buss and to the men on the teams. This year he was awarded a "D" in recognition of his hard work. He has to take care of all details of the trips and see that every necessity and convenience is ready for the men. His good work in this respect has been of much help to the teams. Smith is assisted in his work by Roger Tea and David Hogue.

Sigma Delta Psi

Sigma Delta Psi, honorary athletic fraternity, was founded at Indiana University in 1913; and one year later a chapter was established at DePauw. At present there are two members in the University, Theodore Proud and Frederick Glossbrenner, both Juniors. There are some fifteen colleges and universities in the country that have chapters of Sigma Delta Psi. The aim of the organization is to encourage comprehensive physical development and training among college students. For membership it is necessary to qualify in several branches of athletic sports. Other men who have belonged to the DePauw chapter are, James House, Robert Bastian, Wilbur Stonex and Zaner LeMaster.

The Noise-Makers

"The Old ser-i-e-s, Hullaballo, Make it big" and we all climb up on our feet and break loose with everything we've got. Winning or losing, Tillotson is out there in his striped suit pumping us of all the wind we ever had and then some. For four years he has led the lung experts, always fair and sportsmanlike in his attitude toward opposing teams and players, and most of all, he has kept the stands in commotion.

We almost get down again when Jimmy Sheetz, assistant and probable successor to the striped suit, brings us up for few good growls. Jimmy is a new man, but never lets things drag in the rooting sections.

Then we stand up and sing, in our own peculiar way, while the band tears off some selections. This outfit is always on hand, rain or shine, indoors or out, and has been a big help at all varsity contests. "As good as the best of them"—that's the band. Then the "best drum corps in the state" swings onto the field in gold caps and sashes and tears things up in general. We don't know much about rhythm but every blow of the whistle is a signal for some kind of a new beat that seems to drum up a lot of enthusiasm.

The old DePauw Spirit has been behind the teams every minute of play. Those of us who couldn't do anything athletic if we tried haven't been afraid to give every bit of energy to back up those who do. That is the thing that makes winning teams, and too much praise cannot be given the yell leaders, to Allen of the band and Neff of the drum corps, as well as the members of these organizations, for their loyal work.

The Season

The long existing desire of DePauw friends and alumni that she might compete with the best schools in the central west has been realized in the late season. While, so far as actual victories are concerned, this season has not been what we would have liked, yet the spirit and fight exhibited somewhat offsets the unpleasantness of being on the lower end of some of the scores. Our "System" is here and from this time hence we feel we are going to see concrete results in Athletics.

DePauw started out this year with seemingly an unlimited supply of football material and it was hoped that a clean slate might be kept throughout the year. Fate intervened and injuries kept some of our most reliable men on the bench a great part of the playing season. The poor conditions of our athletic field resulted in the evidence of many bad knees and ankles. The field is so hard that it is very easy for men to be permanently disabled. Notwithstanding these mishaps we are proud of the way our team exhibited their knowledge of football in most of the games played.

Only two men will be lost this year and so with a nucleus of twelve letter men we hope to see told DePauw come thru with an astounding record next year. "D" sweaters have been awarded Captain Merrill Guild, Bernard Guild, Moffett, Welch, Slutz, Wineland, Kepner, Jacobs, Ogden, Burton, O'Neil, Wendt, Harold Galloway, Amor Galloway, Gipson, Dunlavy and Manager Smith. The following men who gave their efforts faithfully but were not able to participate in enough games have been given "R" sweaters: Hassett, Yager, Mendenhall, Stewart and Robinson. The Athletic Board innovated a new plan when they gave to all men who were out all year but who did not quite display the caliber for first teams, caps having a small "D" upon them.

In appreciation of the work done by the men on the team the Athletic Board is giving to all the "D" men a theatre party and banquet in Indianapolis on December 13.

The James Milliken Game

DePauw opened its season against this Illinois team. With half the regulars on the bench, nursing injuries, the disabled team went down to a 13-7 defeat. Milliken got the jump by scoring a touchdown and two field goals in the first half. Buss's men, re-enforced by regulars, came back in the second half and displayed some real football. One touchdown was made and the game ended with the ball in our possession on the Milliken 10-yd. line.

The Northwestern Game

Our first football game with Northwestern University was played at Evanston on October 11. Until the last five minutes of play the score stood 6-0 in Northwestern's favor with the ball in our possession a good share of the time and our men fighting the Purple to a standstill. The team experienced some hard luck but the doggedness with which our men hit the Northwestern line will long be remembered by both teams. Two intercepted passes in the last few minutes followed by long runs netted the Evanston team two touchdowns and placed them safely out of danger of defeat. The game ended 20-0.

The Butler Game

The second home game gave practically every man on the squad an opportunity to play. This game was a veritable track meet and the Butler line seemed to offer little resistance to any of DePauw's efforts to pierce her line, go around her end or pass over her head. The final count was 76-0 with DePauw on the big end of the score.

The Michigan Aggie Game

During the first half of this contest the Bussmen were apparently bewildered. But they came back in the second half and displayed the fight of a real team. The slippery condition of the field somewhat prevented our backs from getting under way and carrying the ball forward for any considerable gains. Two dependable backfield men were out of the line in this game in the persons of Gipson and O'Neil, who were forced to watch the play from the side-lines. Final Score 27-0.

The Franklin Game

In the true sense of the word, this game was an hour's "mud slinging" contest. Three days of rain had put the field in a miserable condition and it was impossible to work any trick plays or forward passes during this whole game. We went into the game with a determination and counted a touchdown within the first five minutes. From this point on it was a see-saw affair up and down the field, both teams relying upon punts to net them gains. Too much credit cannot be given the team for the way they played. Franklin's colors were again lowered 7 to 0 and we had used only three plays during the entire game. No effort was made to run up a score owing to the muddy condition of the field.

The Wabash Game

There had never been so much excitement at either Greencastle or Crawfordsville over a game before as there was over this one. Both schools turned out 100 per cent at Indianapolis to witness the annual fricassee. With the Old Gold spirit that we like to see, the team went into the contest with all their fight and the manner in which we outfought the Little Giants will be remembered by DePauw followers. The score ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

Quarterback O'Neil uncorked some plays that completely bewildered the Scarlet team. We hit off tackle, passed over thir heads and bucked their line for gain after gain but when it would come to the final time when we needed to rush the ball over, a fumble on our part or a tightening of the Wabash line would hold us for downs or give them the ball. Our line played as it had not played all season and Wabash made only two first downs during the entire game. On running back a punt Harold Galloway returned the ball from the ten yard line to Wabash's thirty yard line to be downed from behind when his interference proved too slow for him. It was a game of thrills and all was satisfactory but the final score. Wabash has not won from DePauw in three years.

The Purdue Game

After a victory of 9 to 7 last year we were forced to bow to Purdue to a 24 to 0 score. Purdue ran our ends with a perfect interference and made numerous gains of twenty and thirty yards. On a delayed buck thru center she was able to make first downs repeatedly. DePauw tightened up in the second half and held the Boilermakers to one touchdown. The playing of Ted Ogden at center featured this game as he broke thru their line and often downed the man with the ball before he had opportunity to make a gain.

The Centre Game

The final game of the season was played at Louisville, Kentucky, so that all of that state might have the opportunity to see the wonderful creation from Danville. This Centre team had not been defeated but once in three years and that by DePauw in 1917. She had beaten West Virginia and some of the best teams of the country and by several critics is considered the best team in America today. Centre won 56 to 0, but a fight was put up by DePauw that caused praise to come to us from all who witnessed the game. McMillan and Roberts, of the Colonels backfield, found themselves halted in their tracks by our linesmen time and again. Red Weaver, the center who is considered as an all-American possibility, made the statement that Ted Ogden was one of the best men he had ever played against. The feature of the game was a return of the ball by Harold Galloway of 80 yards thru the entire Centre team only to be lost on a fumble within 2 yards of the goal. Breaks of luck such as these, caused a loss of spirit but the team deserves unlimited praise for the fine brand of ball played.

Cooperation

Further proof of the unfailing cooperation between the school and those who have graduated from its halls is to be had in the fine response made by some of the schools former athletes to an emergency that arose during the last football season. With Coach Buss incapacitated by a nervous breakdown, and with the big Centre game staring the football artists in the face, things were in a bad way.

The situation was saved by the arrival of Charles Jewett, Mayor of Indianapolis, Chester Jewett, his brother, Fred Tucker and Felix McWhirter, all of Indianapolis who immediately took charge of practice and training. All four men are wearer's of the "D" and showed the teams some stuff which they used to work on their opponents. The work of these men kept the team in good trim during the absence of Coach Buss and they all look glad enough for the opportunity to get into the uniform again and work for "Old DePauw".

BASKETBALL

First Row—Curtis, Gipson, Miller, Capt. Cannon, Carlisle, Mendenhall, Moffett.
Second Row—Young, Allee, Guild, Kepner, Bills.

The Speed Five

Playing one of the fastest brands of basketball to be seen anywhere in the state, the DePauw team won for itself the name of the "Speed Five" and completed for the school one of the best basketball seasons that it has experienced in years. With a world of good material to choose from Coach Buss built up a fast and smooth-going aggregation. Although the team struck some of the best teams in this section of the country, only one displayed a brand of ball that was equal to that shown by the Tiger five. That team was Purdue's, undoubtedly the best organization in the conference, that won two heart-breaking victories from the Bussmen each time by a one-point margin.

The team was captained by Cannon who displayed a wonderful game at forward. "Newt" Carlisle played his last game this year and ended his career at his usual fast pace. Curtis played a splendid game at center. The work of Moffet, Gipson and Mendenhall at the guard positions is especially worthy of note and resulted in the election of Gipson to captain the next years team. Four promising freshmen were found in Bills, Kepner and Young. Miller was out most of the season through ineligibility.

The Season

With the awarding of "D" sweaters to Captain Cannon, Carlisle, Mendenhall, Curtis, Miller, Gipson, Moffet, Kepner, Bills and Young, the basketball season officially drew to a close. With the curtain dropped on the 1919 season, comes the successful close of one of the greatest basketball seasons ever held by DePauw University.

With a total of seventeen games played during the season, the Old Gold squad lost but three contests, two of these going to Purdue with but a one point margin of victory in each contest and the last defeat coming from the hands of Wabash. During the season the Tigers piled up a total of 702 points while their opponents gained only 303, maintaining a game average of 41.3 points, and holding their opponents same average to less than 18.

Figuring the seventeen contests as representing 680 minutes of play, with an added five minutes for overtime in the Notre Dame contest, the total number of minutes played was 685. From the total points obtained during the season the Tiger average can be found to be 1.2 points for every minute of play.

The encouraging feature of the 1919 team is the fact that, with the exception of "Newt" Carlisle, who graduates, the entire team is composed of underclassmen. Captain Cannon, Curtis, Mendenhall, Miller, Moffet and Captain-elect Gipson are sophomores and have two more seasons to participate in Old Gold athletics, while Bills, Young, Kepner, and Allee are members of the freshman class. With the 1920 season a year of even a more brilliant record than that of the past season can be predicted for the Tiger quintet.

TRACK

Track Season of 1919

The war which made such a difference in the attendance at DePauw, also crippled Coach Bucheit's track team. Among others the loss of H. Jones the 1918 captain was keenly felt. But with characteristic doggedness the Tiger thinly clads with Mason, Proud, Shoptaugh and a few other regulars set to work to do their best for DePauw in this branch of sport, saying more plainly with action than with words, "For DePauw I Will".

Track has not been a major sport at DePauw in recent years and much credit is due to Coach Bucheit and his men for their efforts against odds. Never was anything more needed at DePauw than A NEW ATHLETIC FIELD and especially a NEW TRACK.

Letters were rewarded the following men—"D's".

Robert Mason, Paul Jones, Henry Shoptaugh, Harry Lamport, Lloyd Cline, Read Cannady, Frank Weathers, Ted Proud, Bernard Guild, Donavon Moffet.

"R's"—Wilbur Grose, Herschel Davis, Frank Borders, Joseph Barth.

Purdue Meet

Coach Bucheit's new track team made a game showing against the experienced Purdue squad losing 55-35. Notwithstanding the unfamiliarity with a banked track the DePauw squad made the contest a close one until the last two events. Mason and Shoptaugh held the Boiler Makers to a lead of three points until the latter part of the meet. Proud showed his old form in the mile run and nosed out Cole in the finish.

Franklin Meet—May 3, 1919.

DePauw experienced little trouble in taking the Franklin College meet, netting 71⅔ points to their opponents 45 1-13. As usual, Mason was the high point winner taking all the dashes as well as the 440. Jones was a close second with 14 points. Kingsolver of Franklin made twelve points for his school. The Tigers were greatly crippled because of the loss of Shoptaugh on account of sickness. Proud and Grose easily defeated Cross, Franklin's noted two miler. Jones showed up well in the pole vault and high jump, and Lamport, the big boy from California, took first in the high hurdles and second in the lows. Bastain, Weathers and Borders experienced no trouble in taking all three places in the half mile. Davis showed promise of a bright future, winning third in the mile.

Wabash Meet

The Old Gold track team fell before Wabash at Crawfordsville by the small margin of two points. Mason, Jones, Lamport, Cline and Proud made a wonderful showing for the Tigers, but were not backed up in point winning by the rest of the team.

Indiana Meet

It was a badly crippled squad that lost to Indiana on McKeen field by a score of 69 to 46. Due to injuries, Bastain and Jones were not in suits and coach Bucheit had to depend on Mason, Lamport, Cline, Proud, Shoptaugh, Canaday and Guild for his main point winners. The rest of the squad made a game fight but were unable to bring the score up to a winning level. Moffet showed good form in the shot put and was only beaten by Phillips in the last trial by about two inches.

State Meet—May 29

Twelve men represented the Tiger squad in the State meet winning fourth place for this school. The point getters were, Lamport, Mason, Proud, and Guild. Lamport showed real speed taking the low hurdles in 25 4-5 seconds which beats the I. C. A. L. record.

The Cross-Country Team of 1919

Cross-country received enthusiastic support last fall, and quite a number of the men came out for daily practice and instruction with last year's two-miler, Ted Proud as coach. Several of the men showed up well and Proud experienced some difficulty in selecting five men to represent DePauw at the meet held at Wabash December 6, 1919, in which Indiana, Purdue, Notre Dame, Wabash and DePauw competed. The team was composed of Zekiel, Reed, Gaskins, K. Mason and Weathers. The day of the meet was most disagreeable and the three and a half mile course over brick macadam and gravel was covered with ice and snow. Despite this the distance was covered in eighteen and three-fourths minutes by Furnace of Purdue.

Purdue won first, Notre Dame second, DePauw third, Wabash fourth, and Indiana fifth.

Inter-Mural Athletics

For the first time in recent years, Intermural sports have been entered into. on a large scale, at DePauw. Coack Buchit has been in charge of the arrangements, and as a result of his work several tournaments have been played off or are now in progress. This program of intermural athletics has included inter-fraternity, and inter-class basket ball, bowling, and baseball.

The first tournament of the season was the inter-fraternity Basket Ball contest which was won by Delta Tau Delta, for the second time since the first offering of the championship cup three years ago. The tournament was played by elimination, and ended in a round-robin between the three teams remaining. The Delts copped the cup by defeating Sigma Xi in the final round of play. The tournament was marred by a serious accident when Robert Ball of the Delt team suffered a broken leg in the Delt-Beta game.

The second tournament was the inter-class basketball fray which was won by the Sophomore class team. This five went through the entire series undefeated. The Senior team was the most formidable opponent of the second year men but suffered defeat at their hands late in the tournament.

Inter-fraternity Bowling now holds the stage. This contest is also one of elimination and the final rounds find Delta Sigma Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Delta Tau Delta still in the running.

The fraternities will next meet in a swimming tournament consisting of dashes, relay, plunges, and diving.

Other matches have not been played but Coach Buchiet is making plans for both inter-class and inter-fraternity baseball later in the season.

In this connection, the work of David Lilienthal in boxing instruction is very interesting. Lilienthal gives a two hour course in the manly art and is making great headway. Matches will be arranged later.

The school is looking with favor on the growth of such sports between the different organizations and classes within the school, not only because of the friendly spirit and rivalry that they cause, but also because such activities give an opportunity for greater numbers of men to take part in athletic sports, a thing which all experts agree is very desirable. In addition to such benefits as these, it is to be remembered that these contests are very likely to develop or bring to light some material which can be used on varsity teams.

The Season

With Coach Conklin back and twenty-five men out at the first call, everybody seemed to be well satisfied at the prospect for a winning team. With six old men for a nucleus, Captain Julien and the coach began early practice for the April games. At the beginning of the season there was keen competition for the different positions.

Most of the games that were played were won or lost by close scores. The widest being the six-to-one victory over Wabash and the nine-to-three decision over the Franklin aggregation. Due to the rainy season, seven of the scheduled games could not be played off. The Tigers won two-thirds of the contests in which they participated.

The greatest interest of all was the Kentucky trip which will be hard for the bunch to forget. It began on Tuesday morning and the team was on the road until the following Friday. The first game was played at Hanover College and was one of the hardest fought that the team experienced. Hanover scored twice in the first inning and held the Old Gold warriors to a 2-0 score until the ninth inning, when our team came through and tied the score. "Arlie" kept up the good work on the mound and kept Hanover from counting while Stephenson drove a hit down third base line in the fourteenth inning and was driven in for the winning count.

Although rain kept the team from playing any more games on this trip, every man enjoyed the experiences in Kentucky. The team made Louisville, Danville, Lexington, and returned by way of Cincinnati.

The team had the misfortune of a break in their machine near the end of the season. Coach Conklin had a winning team the first of the year, administering defeats to Wabash and other nines. But an injury to one of the players made it necessary for Conklin to reorganize his team. This was practically an impossibility at so late a time and also because of the material he was compelled to choose from. Nevertheless it was attempted and the old gang was partially successful in the fourth game with Wabash, but cracked when it came to the real test.

B. Guild, Pitcher | Davis, Outfield | Capt. Julien, Pitcher | M. Guild, Catcher | Bastian, Third Base

1920 Prospects

Prospects for the coming season are the best the Old Gold has had for some time. With Capt. Guild, Julien, Davis, "Scouge" Guild, Tuhey, and Isenbarger back the outlook is exceptionally bright. New men who look like varsity material are Cannon, Elwyn, Norris, Darnell, and Glascock.

Another encouraging feature is in the new coach. Joseph is a man who knows baseball and possesses also the fundamental requirements of a successful coach, that is, he understands men, and has (himself) a winning personality.

Julien is back in form and with his old mate "Scouge" at the other end should make the best of them swing at the air. From all indications the infield will be the fastest DePauw has seen. Cannon is the logical man for the position at first and promises to be a real slugger. Tuhey will hold down second and should make Joseph a reliable man if his "game" finger will stand the grind. Norris will probably fill Cartwright's shoes at Short. Davis has been called into third base this year and is slugging as usual. The outfield is very doubtful as yet. Capt. "Bun" Guild will play in the center garden with Isenbarger and Glascock probably on each side.

Basketball 1919-20

The Co-Ed Basket-ball season opened during the first part of December with the intra-mural tournament, the honors of which were carried off by the Rector Hall team when it defeated the Mansfield five in the final round of play. A great deal of interest was displayed in this branch of sport and the winning Rector team, pictures above, was forced to the limit to defeat its opponents. Nine teams participated, one from each of the sorority houses and from the two halls.

The second feature of the basket-ball season was the inter-class tournament which was won by the freshman aggregation. All players on the teams were required to pass the Basket-ball examination of rules given by Miss Steese, the women's physical director, before they were allowed to participate in the tournament. The classes of 1922 and 1923 defeated the Junior and Senior fives and contested for first place until the freshman team went into the lead by its final victory over the second year girls. A basketball dinner was given in honor of the winning underclassmen by the members of the other three class teams.

A great deal of the credit for the success and interest in this and other forms of co-ed sport is to be attributed to the activity and energy displayed by the girl's athletic department under the direction of Miss Steese, the physical director, and her assistant Miss Twineham. Under this leadership there has been an increasingly large interest among the girls and the success of their efforts is attested by the college records which are held by DePauw co-eds such as those in track noted on the last page of the Co-ed Athletic Department of this book.

Swimming 1919-20

As part of the program of the last year's May Day festivities, the swimmers representing the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes met in the interclass aquatic tournament held in the gymnasium pool.

The events consisted of races, relays, stroke exhibitions, diving and plunging contests, and a number of special stunts which were the culmination of a long period of practice. The sophomore swimmers won the majority of the events and carried away 190 out of a possible 300 points. Their nearst competitor, the Junior team, was far behind with 40 points, while the other two classes tied for the third position, each with 35 points to their credit.

The superiority of women in the aquatic sports is well known, and the work of the department in instructing the girls in swimming, diving and allied subjects has been very gratifying. Four girls have won the distinctive white caps for merit in the life saving tests and others have the privilege of wearing the blue cap for special skill in swimming, while a great number of girls have the use of the pool but are only privileged to wear red caps.

Tennis

1919-1920

Matches for class championships were scheduled during the fall tennis tournament, but the inclemency of the weather prevented the playing of most of the class games which are, however, being played off this spring. This condition likewise stopped the men's tournament after the first round had been completed and necessitated the postponement of all scheduled games.

The only class championship determined in the girls' tournament was that of the Freshman Class, won by Faye Smith.

BASE BALL

1919-20

Early last spring the organization of class Base Ball teams began among the Co-eds. The teams representing the Senior and Sophomore classes survived the contest and played in the final game. The underclassmen succeeded in defeating the older girls, who have held the interclass Base Ball honors for two successive years.

HIKING

One of the most energetic sports in which the girls participate is that of Hiking. As an incentive to this exercise points are awarded for the completion of a five mile walk within an hour. Since these points lead to membership in W. A. A. quite a number of girls have shown interest in this branch of activity and have qualified. Points are also given for walks of twice this length.

"The Editor Has His Say"

Nobody dares, indeed nobody wants, to publish a book containing more than fifty pages without having some little half page somewhere in which to swing forth his well-worn Corona in a free and flowing style and say what he wants to and not what the occasion demands. Therein he usually makes an apology to his readers, thanks all his friends and acquaintances for the help rendered, sets forth his broad and intelligent editorial policy, signs his name, heaves a sigh of relief and consigns the editing game to the place from whence it came. That is, unless he is a confirmed editor.

As for apology, we have none, for we have tried without prejudice to give every person and every activity its proper place and praise. We have tried to give everything at DePauw justice, in so far as justice can be done in the scope of the limited pages. We sincerely hope and believe that we have not missed or slighted any one. As to the form of the book, we have not followed any precedent formula. It is, as far as we know, utterly unlike former books. We have tried to classify things as they are at DePauw, so that the book not only presents a picture of the school, but enables the reader to put his finger on anything he wants. That is our idea of editing.

We do want to thank the Junior Class for the honor given us in our election to the Mirage. Our only hope is that we have well dispatched the responsibility attached to it.

Of one thing we are certain, that, whatever we may have lacked in ability, we have, at least, used the best of materials. We have tried to give DePauw a book of which it can be proud. All we want to say is, that, in quality of materials The Mirage will not be surpassed by any university publication in this state.

You have in your hand the thirty-fifth volume of the Mirage published by the Junior Class for the school year of 1920. The only test of the book is you. If we have pleased you that is the most that we can ask.

THE DEPAUW DAILY
PROBABLE RAISE IN FACULTY SALARIES SLATED FOR THE JANUARY MEETING OF THE UNIVERSITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Maxwell, Editor

Hogue, Bus. Mgr.

The DePauw Daily

The smallest college in America to have a campus newspaper the size of the Daily.

That is the honor which DePauw has won through the publication of its daily newspaper. Other colleges of comparative enrollment issue weeklies and semi-weeklies but none of them have found the support of a Daily possible. And that is another evidence of the progressiveness of DePauw.

The DePauw Daily was established on the campus in 1907 and from that year it has gained steadily in influence, enlarged its circulation; and increased in the size of the paper. At the first, solely a private venture unrecognized by the school, the publication has gradually won the backing of the administration until in 1919 the board of trustees of DePauw authorized the school to stand financially behind the Daily.

In fact the year 1919 inaugurated a new epoch for the Daily. Because of the financial stability which the action of the board of trustees made for, the paper was enabled to obtain a contract with the Riley and Werneke Press of Greencastle for its publication, and mechanically the sheet began a new day.

In previous years the Daily's editorial staff was continually hampered in its work because of lack of mechanical facilities for the paper's publication. The new arrangement minimized many of these difficulties and made possible the issuance of a paper of much better mechanical make-up and composition than that of any other year.

It has always been the policy of the university to permit the editorial staff a free rein in its direction of the paper, thus making the Daily in truth a student publication. And even though it seems as if the ultimate solution of the problem of tying the paper well up with the school without hampering the initiative of its student editors is found in the formation of a publication board comprised of faculty, alumni and student body membership, this should mean no lessening in the power of the student staff.

The Daily this year had a circulation of a daily average of 746 copies. The circulation next year promises to reach the 1000 mark. It is by far the most influential publication issued in the university.

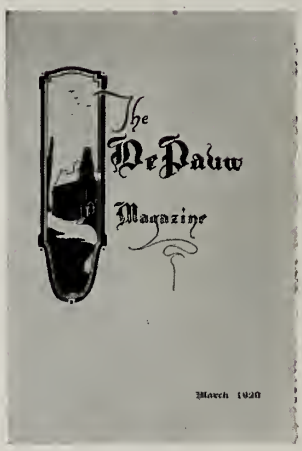
The DePauw Magazine



IN an institution noted for its literary achievements and the number of men and women that have made names for themselves in the world of writing, an unexplainable deficiency has been the lack of anything in the way of a literary publication. With the idea of remedying this defect, a number of enterprising persons have this year established on the campus The DePauw Magazine. The conviction has been held that there is a place for a publication that is frankly literary in its tone, and in which may be found the best short stories, poems, essays, plays, and articles produced by DePauw men and women—students, faculty members, and alumni. An attempt has been made to put out a magazine that will be a credit not only on this campus but especially among other institutions, consequently, the publication has been made to conform to the very highest standard in its mechanical make-up.

The DePauw Magazine is issued four times a year—in October, January, March and May—and is supported solely by the subscriptions and by the limited local advertising it carries. A unique feature of its financial management is the fact that no persons connected with the magazine in any capacity receives, directly or indirectly, a single cent; all the revenue received is put into the undertaking.

One of the Magazine's most noteworthy achievements has been the establishment at DePauw of the O. Henry Prize in Short Story Writing. This prize, consisting of a set of the complete writings of O. Henry bound in full leather, has been made possible through the generosity of the Doubleday Page Company, of Garden City, New York, the authorized publishers of the works of America's greatest master of the Short Story. The prize is given for the best short story written by any regularly enrolled student of DePauw University.

So that as large a number of students as possible may have an opportunity at the actual production of the magazine, a plan has been followed of bringing new members on the staff of each issue. In order to give the continuity of editorial management that is necessary, Professor R. W. Pence, head of the Department of English Composition and Rhetoric, acts as managing editor. The following have been editors in connection with the three numbers so far issued—

J. Faye Anderson, Marie Bruhn, Frances Cavanah, Mary Collins, Claude Cooper, Margaret George, Wendell Godwin, Ralph Harlan, Catherine Holman, Elizabeth Iliff, Margaret Laughlin, Richard McGinnis, Nora Miller, June Moll, Paul Neff, Frank Roberts, Grace Ruthenberg, Clinton Simpson, Mary Slipher, Margaretta Stevenson, Judith Sollenberger, Jean Tilley, Bertha Tucker, Halford Udell, Alora Ward and Alice Watts.

Duzer Du

The Duzer Du Dramatic Fraternity as well as producing a number of plays, has been engaged in furthering the project outlined last year, the erection of a "Little Theatre Worthy of DePauw".

The Little Theatre Committee, under the supervision of David Lilienthal, is sending out propoganda to men and women, the majority of whom are graduates of DePauw, in order to interest them in an undertaking which will add greatly to the dramatic possibilities of the campus as well as to the standing of the University as a whole.

Owing to the enthusiasm with which last year's performance was received the plan of presenting original plays is to be repeated this year. A certain number of plays will be chosen for staging some time this spring. The authors will be elected to honorary membership in the club.

Duzer Du has increased its roll this year to include twelve new members, making a total of thirty six. New members are chosen by means of a competitive try-out held in the fall of each year.

The officers for this year are Frank Roberts, President; Helen Cory, Vice-President; Grace Ruthenburg, Secretary; Herbert Barth, Treasurer.

"A Night At An Inn"

On January 23 and 24, Duzer Du presented a series of three one act plays, the first of which was—"A Night At An Inn" by Lord Dunsany. The atmosphere of tragedy and fatalism, which requires exceptionally delicate handling, was well sustained by Frank Roberts as "The Toff" and by Ralph Harlan, Charles Alexander and Ralph Jones in the parts of "Sniggers", "Bill", and "Albert" respectively. These four sailors along with the idol "Klesh" and his three Hindu Priests form the caste of this remarkable tragedy.

"The Florist Shop"

"The Florist Shop", by Winifred Hawkridge, is one of the Harvard Plays, and is particularly noteworthy for the whimsical humor of the characters and its unusually graceful setting. Evaline Ballard did excellent work as "Maude", the sympathetic book-keeper. The play was directed by Prof. H. B. Gough.

The last of this series of short productions was James M. Barrie's comedy of manners, "The Twelve-Pound Look", in which a woman frees herself, and maintains her individuality in the face of her husband's overpowering egotism. The parts were presented with insight and sympathy by Cassandra Love as "Kate", Helen Armfield as "Emmy", and Ledger Ford in the part of "Sir Harry".

Prunella

"Prunella" was the May Day play given by members of the Women's Self Government Association. It is interesting from the point of view of setting and costume as well as for the beauty of the tale, which is based on the story of Columbine. It was directed by Miss Carol McMillan. Margaret Spaulding played Prunella; Cassandra Love, Pierrot and Grace Ruthenburg, Scaramel. Madeline Dague and Alice Watts did excellent work in scenery and costuming.

Pantomimes

On January 17 the Dramatic Interpretation class gave a presentation of two original pantomimes—"Heartsease", an Irish legend written by Gladys Geyer and produced under the direction of Helen Kersey; and "The Garden of Eden", written by Helen Kersey and directed by Helen Armfield.

In the first, an evil spirit enters a cottage at the crushing of the red flower, his sacred symbol, shattering the crucifix and destroying the happiness of the home. The spirits of Rose and Buttercup have failed to mend the cross when Heartsease slips from the fireplace and restores it with a kiss.

"The Garden of Eden" is the story of Adam and Eve taken from an ancient Hittite legend. Satan alone is unable to persuade Eve to eat of the apple and taste of the glories, but he is aided by Dame Boredom, who is successful in tempting her from the sacred garden.

The setting and costumes were designed and executed by members of the class.

The Senior Class Play

Esmeralda, a comedy by Burnet and Gillette was presented by the Senior Class of 1919 on June 4. It is the story of a simple American family which, having become wealthy through the discovery of oil on the farm, attempts to break into European society under the leadership of an ambitious mother. Esmeralda, the daughter, is at first carried away by her mother's plans, but eventually revolts against a series of Counts, and returns to the farm and Dave.

The part of Esmeralda was taken by Vivian Harris; that of the termagant mother, by Mary Ann Scholl; Charles Alexander, '20, was the homesick father of Esmeralda. The play was directed by Professor H. B. Gough.

Debate

Inter-collegiate debate has returned to its own. After three years of disbandonment and unorganization resulting from the war, debate has this year returned to a prominent place among the foremost campus activities.

This season DePauw scheduled only one debate—a triangular contest with Albion and Earlham colleges—but next year a return to the pre-war system is expected, when several competitive meets will be held during the winter. Probably a women's debate team will be organized, a Freshmen "scrub" team selected, inter-class debate competition will be instituted, and more prizes and honors awarded to winning contestants in argumentation.

The preliminary try-out to select the members of the 1920 varsity debate squad was held on December 2. The subject for discussion was—"Resolved, (Constitutionally Waived), That the Federal Government Should Adopt a System of Compulsory Arbitration for the Settlement of Labor Disputes". This was also the question selected for the inter-collegiate triangular debates with Albion and Earlham, which were contested on March 19, 1920 at Albion, Michigan, and Richmond, Indiana. The same night teams from these two colleges vied for supremacy in Meharry Hall.

The affirmative team which represented DePauw was composed of Robert E. Badger '20, Robert W. Clark '20, and Virgil O. Jackson '20, and in a hotly contested clash with Albion College at Richmond, Indiana, the Old Gold team was unfortunately awarded the losing end of the judge's decision. Our negative team comprised Ward V. Courtney '21, Arthur P. Jordan '20, and James V. Claypool '21, and in a very close decision had the misfortune and hard luck of meeting defeat at the hands of the strong aggregation of Earlham orators, at Albion, Michigan. The alternates were Claude Cooper '22, and Lewis Rosenberg '23.

A new system of judging was tried this year. The judges were drawn exclusively from members of the college faculty, and comprised five members instead of the usual three. The selection of the judges was left to the various coaches of each institution.

Only one of the men had previously participated in an inter-collegiate debate. Virgil Jackson '20 was a member of the debating squad of 1917 and took part in the inter-collegiate educational debates of that year. Jackson and Claypool '21 were both members of the 1918 team and received the customary training and experience, although it was impossible to schedule any inter-collegiate contests that year.

Among the under-classmen there is some very strong debate material, and with Courtney and Claypool as a nucleus an invincible aggregation of arguers is expected at D. P. U. next year. The university still prides itself on possessing in the person of Harry Bainbridge Gough a debate professor who has no superior among the coaches of the middle west. The thoroughness and high caliber which permeates the work of Professor Gough is in no small measure responsible for the estimable reputation which DePauw holds in the realm of debate today.

Second Row—Merrill Guild, Virgil Jackson, Paul Neff, David Lilienthal.

Third Row—Harold Jones, Raymond Smith, Arlie Julian, Lowell Toms.

Kappa Tau Kappa

Kappa Tau Kappa is the honorary Senior fraternity and was founded at DePauw in 1902. Its membership is composed entirely of Senior men, each fraternity being represented by a member. The purpose of the organization is to encourage friendly feeling among the fraternities and to act as a sort of pan-hellenic council in the settlement of such fraternity questions as might arise on the campus.

First Row—Catherine Holman, Frances Cavanah, Beulah Sheehan, Helen Kersey, Edith Curry.

Second Row—Belinda Crane, Cassandra Love, Mary Mutschler, Margaret Laughlin, Magaret Shoptaugh.

Mortor Board

Mortor Board is an honorary fraternity for Senior Women. It is a national organization. The local chapter was formerly Gamma Sigma Delta but received its charter from Mortor Board this year. Its aim is the promotion of social democracy and the enthusiastic support of all college enterprises. Membership is elective.

Absent—David Lilienthal, William Murray.

Pledges—David Hogue, Dwight Allison, Henry Chillas.

Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, was founded at DePauw University in 1909. Since that time it has grown rapidly and now has twenty-nine active chapters in different universities throughout the country. This year the fraternity published its official campus organ, The Yellow Crab, which met with a great deal of favor and contained many pointed articles on people and conditions on the DePauw campus.

First Row—Jewell Moll, George Sammons, Vincent O'Neil, Merrill Guild, Dwight Allison, Hal Slutz, Robert Manning.

The Travelers Club

The Traveler's Club is an organization of Master Masons and this year for the second time has made its appearance on the campus. It was organized last year under the direction of Captain John L. Frazee, then commandant of the DePauw unit of the Student Army Corps. It then contained only about twelve members. This year the organization has greatly increased in size and has been found quite enjoyable as a means of get-to-gether for the members of the Masonic lodge among the students and faculty.

First Row—Harold Freeland, Paul Kepner, Warren Cook, E. Holt Hughes, Jr., Norris Zechiel, Gray Truitt, Wallace Welch, W. H. Slutz.

Second Row—Charles Alexander, William Hanley, Van Carpenter, Carl Hixon, Frank Gott, John Clearwaters, Walter Gregory.

Amerex

"Amerex" is an organization whose personnel consists of DePauw men who saw foreign service during the World War. Its purposes are, first the combination of fellowship created during service, second to provide for DePauw a fraternal order such as exists in practically every other college and university in the United States today, and third ,a group with social interests.

There are approximately forty members and all have shown an active interest in the formation of the club. Its officers consist of a President, Secretary, and an Executive Committee. President, E. Holt Hughes, Jr.; Secretary Wallace Welch; Executive Committee, Harold Freeland, Otis Wright, Harold Hootman, Paul Kepner, and William L. Toms.

DEPARTMENTAL CLUBS

First Row—Alice Claire Beckwith, Alice Watts, Beulah Shehan, Margaret Laughlin.

Second Row—Pauline Thomas, Grace Ruthenberg, June Moll.

The French Club

The French Club is an organization of those people on the campus who are majoring, or otherwise interested, in the French Language. Its aim is to give its members a practical, working knowledge of French, and to supplement the regular class instruction with a great deal of conversation, with an aim to creating greater familiarity with the language and greater fluency in its use. Miss Carol McMillan and Professor Nichols are the faculty members of the organization. Because of its interesting and profitable meetings, the club has gained and held a large membership throughout the year.

First Row—Lily Kent, Frances Grose, Thelma Fiddler, Velma Jones, Pauline Norris.

Second Row—Franklin Baker, Eugene Wechter, Paul VanArsdale, Estelle Phillips, Prof. Blanchard.

Third Row—Melford McCann, James Bean, Virginius Moore, John McKinney, Sam Hanna, William Austil.

The Chemistry Club

The chemistry club has as its aim the study of chemistry, and to act as an agent in producing a greater feeling of sociability among its members. The meetings of the organization consist of talks by members and by outside speakers on interesting topics of chemistry and usually are concluded by a social time among the members. Membership is selected from among those students who are planning to major in the chemistry department.

First Row—Mary Ellen Martin, Helen Williams, Mary Jackson, Valeria Johnson, Faith Dropsey, Mary Louise Arnold, Dorothy Smart, Kathleen Kerns, Anna Marie McDermond.

Second Row—Dean Post, Evaline Ballard, Ruth Ewing, Nellie Banch, Alberta Wolff, Miss Shearer, Blanche Reede, Eva Crawford, Emily Jackson.

Epsilon Epsilon

Epsilon Epsilon is an organization in the Greek department and only those taking work in this branch are eligible for membership. Epsilon Epsilon has been in existence on the campus for quite a number of years and it has been very influential in creating interest in the language and good fellowship among the Greek students. The officers for the past year have been—Robert Badger, President; Blanche Reed, Vice-President; Hubert Hodgens, Secretary-Treasurer.

First Row—Mary Ulrich, Frances Cavanah, Marion Thrush.

Second Row—Kathleen Kerns, Catharine Rothenberger.

Vocational Conference

It is the purpose of the annual Vocational Conference, financed and conducted under the auspices of S. G. A., to help DePauw women determine their profession and to acquaint them with fields other than teaching. The fifth session, held on March 11 and 12 this year, brought speakers on banking, social service, dramatic production, biology and chemistry, and journalism, every girl in the university having previously been given an opportunity to express her choice of the vocation she wished to hear discussed.

Fourth Row—Margaret Shoptaugh, Margaret Fish, Faith Dropsey, Helen Miller.

Women's Self-Government Association

W. S. G. A., since its organization in nineteen fifteen has been a prominent factor on the campus. Under the supervision of the faculty, it makes the rules for the government of the women of the university. Representation is on the basis of two members from each dormitory and sorority house. Girls residing in town also elect representatives. S. G. A. inaugurated the "Big Sister" movement three years ago. Its care of the incoming Freshmen girls has been more efficient each year.

First Row—Ruth Sinks, Irene Foster, Mary Mutschler, Miss Steese, Miss Twineham, Mildred Briggs, Marjorie Taylor.

Second Row—Jane Eagles, Gladys Bebout, Angeline Cline, Janet Beroth, Violet Iddings, Blanche Reede.

Women's Athletic Association

W. A. A. was organized to co-operate with the Department of Physical Education for women. It encourages a higher physical efficiency and a greater spirit of democracy.

Points in the association entitle a girl to rewards ranging from a monogramed sweater to her class numeral. Points may be won in basket-ball, hiking, swimming, bowling, tennis, track, and dancing, Twenty-five points are the requirement for membership in this organization.

Buelah Shehan Ella Mahanna Irene Foster

Civic League

Civic League was organized to interest the women of the university in civic affairs. Speakers on various phases of the work are brought here. Of special interest this year was the talk of Miss Madge Headley, a DePauw alumnus of 1898, on her work in France during the war of housing refugees and canteen management. She also discussed settlement work in which she was previously engaged.

Madras Committee

In April, nineteen fifteen, DePauw co-eds adopted the Christian College for Women in Madras, India as their sister college. The Committee, composed of representatives from the different organizations, has charge of securing the money for its support.

Last year two thousand dollars to be raised in three years was pledged to finance a scientific laboratory there. Four hundred was received from last year's campaign. This year approximately one thousand has been achieved. Besides individual subscriptions, money was given from the various booths at the Co-eds' Circus and from special picture shows.

University Y. M. C. A.

During the present year the Y. M. C. A. has materially widened its scope of activity and has carried on its work with a great deal of enthusiasm and vigor. It has had very able leadership in Herbert Barth, as President, and in the members of its cabinet. Reasoning that the university was taking care of the intellectual and physical development of the students, the Y has been laying its emphasis on the moral side of the triangle and has been a real force for good on the campus. There has been good attendance at the religious meetings, which are held weekly, and the students have given splendid support to every Y. M. enterprise.

At the beginning of the first term, the "Y" representatives gave valuable assistance to the administration officials by helping take care of the large numbers of new students, who presented themselves for registration. The "Y" further aided the new men by giving them an opportunity, a few weeks later, to become acquainted with one another and with the older men, at the "Y" Mixer held at the Bowman Gymnasium, where they had a taste of real hospitality. By the addition of a sub-cabinet to the number of regular officers, and by projecting and backing the Y Movie and the University Glee Club, of which more will be said later, the organization has enlisted general interest among the students and made itself felt as a moving force on the campus.

The local organization has kept in touch with the movements of the national organization of the Young Men's Christian Association and sent two delegates, Herbert Barth and Frank Roberts, to the International Y. M. C. A. Convention at Detroit.

First Row—Ralph Jones, James Claypool, Ronald Fisher, Ted Proud, Harold St. Clair, Charles Alexander

Second Row—Earl Chandler, Tim Sellars, David Hogue.

Last Row—Prof. Hess, Prof. Bundy, Prof. Carson, Prof. Mitchell, Dr. Gobin.

The Sub Cabinet

With an aim to getting a larger working organization and to reaching a greater number of men on the campus, the Y. M. C. A. called one member from every fraternity, and several faculty members to serve on a sub-cabinet. This was done in order that there might be a representative from the Y. M. in every group on the campus to encourage attendance among the members of the group. At the beginning of the second semester, the cabinet, with the aid of these men made a membership drive that resulted in a great increase in enrollment and reached practically every student on the campus.

The Movie and Clee Club Projects.

Early in the year the Y. M. branched out into new fields when it took over the management of the University Glee Club. This work was given to Hareld Jones, who schedules and manages all trips and concerts of the Club. The "Y" also entered a very popular field when at a special meeting of the Student Body, in September, called by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., the purchase of a motion picture machine, costing $200, was unanimously endorsed. Many contributed to its purchase immediately, when the opportunity was given. A machine was bought and placed in the Gymnasium. The most recent screen productions are presented on each Wednesday evening and at other appropriate times, as they are released from the large metropolitan theatres. The support of the student body, the faculty and the public has been good. The idea of installing a machine was suggested by the recreational policy adopted during the presence of the S. A. T. C. last year.

Y. W. C. A. Activities

The DePauw Young Women's Christian Association has filled a campus need that no other college organization could have met. Its purpose has been to develope christian leadership among the young women, as well as to promote a wholesome social and moral atmosphere on the campus.

This year the enrollment exceeded that of any recent year. More than eighty-five percent of the women were members of Y. W., and a remarkable spirit of cooperation has shown itself. New lines of activity have been developed. The department of church cooperation was added to the cabinet this year, and has been successful in accomplishing the purpose which its name suggests.

A new employment bureau has been established in an attempt to aid girls in finding ways of helping themselves financially. Every girl in the university was included in the "Little Sister Movement", which was a new interest among the women of the campus this year. The organization has been giving teas with a view to promoting democratic sociability and has had some very successful parties of this sort. The Association has, in addition to its regular work, been influential in bringing a number of outside speakers to the campus, who have given some very entertaining and instructive addresses to the women. These speakers have been a means of keeping the Y. W. informed on matters of world-wide christian importance. Three official delegates were sent by the local association to the National Y. W. C. A. Convention at Cleveland in April, 1920.

First Row—Faith Dropsey, Belinda Crane, Martha Wagner, Frances Grose, Ruth Roberston.

Second Row—Irene Foster, Mary Louise Arnold, Nell Wilson, Unity Thomas.

The Lake Geneva Club

This organization consists of those girls who have attended the Y. W. C. A. Summer Conference at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. Its prime motive is the development of leadership in college Y. W. C. A. The members for the current year are:

Unity Thomas
Frances Grose
Beulah Sheehan
Nell Wilson
Faith Dropsey
Martha Wagner
Esther Cronin
Mary Louise Arnold
Belinda Crane
Ruth Sinks
Ruth Robertson
Irene Foster
Mary Mutschler

Second Row—Ola Marks, Ruth Blind, Letta Russell, Rachael Cloud, Esther Foster.

Third Row—J. C. Cooley, Elmer Pond, Ray Kelley, Esther Wachnitz.

The Student Volunteer Band

The Student Volunteer Band is the one organization on the campus primarily interested in the promotion of home and foreign mission work. Its members are taking work looking toward missionary work in some field and the organization aims to keep the members informed on the question of missions. The club holds Devotional Meetings regularly each week which are given over to lectures and discussions on the various phases of this branch of life service.

First Row—Frank Hall, Clyde Liniger, Paul Grosceude, Carl Shoemaker, Arthur Armstrong, J. C. Cooley.

Second Row—Harold Snape, Guy Wayne, Frank McIntosh, C. C. Diettert, Hubert Hodgens, Robert Badger, Arthur Jordan.

Third Row—Clifford Pond, L. C. Pritchetts, Dewey Souder, Herbert Laub, Lewis Horton, O. V. Jackson.

Fourth Row—Norbert Talbott, Ingram Carnes, Walter Bailey, Charles Blooah.

The Ministerial Association

The Ministerial Association is an organization of student preachers and men who are looking forward to the ministry as a life work. The club has been found very profitable by its members who here have an opportunity to exchange experiences and observation in actual pulpit work and gather valuable information. The majority of the members are already doing actual work in neighboring communities.

The Ministerial Association takes the place of the former Preachers Club.

First Row—Mary Fraley, Maude Kemp, Prof. Hess, Martha Bennett, Frances Grose, Ted Ogden
Second Row—Paul Jones, Ronald Fischer, Marie Bruhn, O. V. Jackson, Wilbur Grose.

The DesMoines Delegation

The Student Volunteer Convention was held Dec. 30-Jan. 4 at DesMoines, Iowa. The number of delegates permitted each college was proportionate to the enrollment. The twelve representing DePauw were selected by a committee composed of two faculty members and the presidents and vice-presidents of Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. They were chosen on the basis of religious interest and leadership qualities.

Student Volunteer Conventions are held every four years or once during a student generation except that the last one was held six years ago because of the war. Seven thousand delegates, representing practically every country in the world were present. Prominent men who addressed the convention were John R. Mott, Robert E. Speer, and Sherwood Eddy.

And now for a stroll across the campus to the "greeks".

FESTIVITIES

Old Gold Day

Old Gold Day is the big Gala day of DePauw and has been an annual event since the year 1908. On this day all the "old grads" and friends of the institution return to take a post-graduate course in "Campustry" and to help to exalt and celebrate the spirit of "Old DePauw".

This year, in spite of the fact that the weather man chose to send rain instead of sunshine, the same old spirit predominated and the event did not suffer any lapse of enthusiasm and "pep".

The festivities of the day were opened, as is the long established custom, with the Old Gold Day Chapel exercises at eight forty-five. The University Band started things off with a concert, as the classes in their class garbs took their respective places. Meharry Hall was soon packed to capacity and many were forced to stand during the entire program. The Sophs and Freshies, attired in full war paint, and supported by their upperclassmen boosters, made the walls ring with class yells. After this had calmed down the entire student body, led by "Tilly", gave the old series.

The speaker of the occasion was Gov. James P. Goodrich, who made a plea for calmness, sanity, and constructiveness during the war period. His talk was made especially interesting by his reminiscences of college days at DePauw.

After this address, President George R. Grose conferred the degree of Doctor of Pedagogy upon Dr. Charles A. Prosser.

When the chapel service was over, the crowd made its way, thru a misting rain, to the field behind the Phi Psi house which was to be the scene of the annual class scrap between Sophomores and Freshmen. The second year men were greatly outnumbered by their opponents but were well organized and ready to resist the onslaughts of the yearlings. It was a hard-fought battle, but the final gun found "Fuzz" Cannon, Sophomore class leader, still on top of the pole with the colors safe.

The next event on the program was the distribution of the freshmen caps by the treasurer of the student body. This took place inside east college instead of at the flag pole, as is the custom. Appropriate speeches were made by David Lilienthal, President of the Student Body; Fred Johnston, President of the Freshman class; and the other class Presidents in order.

Owing to the muddy condition of the athletic field, the class football games, which were scheduled for the afternoon, were called off, but the varsity game with Franklin was played in spite of a heavy rain which lasted during the entire game. The contest ended in a 6-0 victory for the Bussmen.

At five thirty in the evening, dinner was served to a large number of visitors and students in the gymnasium, by the Y. W. C. A.

The day's festivities were concluded at the Bowman Gymnasium by a display of ingenious talent by some of the campus organizations. An unusually large and appreciative audience witnessed the presentations. The music for the productions was furnished by the Delta Tau Jazz Orchestra.

The program of plays was as follows:

"The Cricket Serenade" . . . . . Delta Delta Delta
"The Height of Ambition" . . . . . Beta Phi
"The Great God Jazz vs. The Great God Jupiter" Mansfield Hall
"The Fiji Island Minstrel" . . . . Phi Gamma Delta
"Into the Nowhere" . . . . . Rector Hall
"You Name It" . . . . . Sigma Nu
"An Announcement" . . . . . Kappa Kappa Gamma

May Day

May Day is another one of DePauw's festive occasions. This day is always famed for three things, namely, the co-ed and all her activities; the Mirage, which is supposed to come out on this date but which never has, as long as we can remember; and last but not least, the rain which usually contrives to spoil all plans. It need hardly be said that on May 11, on which date the festivity was set, it rained, and the program for the day had to be altered.

The usual Y. W. C. A. breakfast, which was to have been held on the campus, was transfered to the gymnasium where food and music became the order of the day. The inclemency of the weather prevented the track meet and tennis tournament which had been scheduled for the morning, but the indoor baseball and swimming contests where held in the gymnasium. These events concluded the morning program.

In the afternoon, W. A. A. presented its pageant, "A May Revelry" by Natalie Coffin, '19. Miss Joye Webb was chosen "Spirit of May" and her attendants were as follows: "Creative Power", Norris McPherson; "Beauty", Catherine Beck; "Spontaneity", Florence Fritch; "Rejoicing", Helen Gordon. The pageant was under the director of women's athletics, Miss Sophia Steese. Another feature of the afternoon was the annual Maypole Dance by the Senior Women.

The evening program consisted of the presentation, by W. S. G. A., of the remarkable play "Prunella" by Lawrence Housman and Granville Barker. The caste included

Pierrot	Cassandra Love
Prunella	Margaret Spaulding
Scaramel	Grace Ruthenberg
The Aunts	Beatrice Evans, Mazie Palm, Natalie Coffin
The Boy	Margaret Wood
Love (a statue)	Wilma Hall

After this production, the day's program was concluded by the beautiful "Parade of the Lanterns", in which the girls, marching with lighted Japanese lanterns, form a winding ribbon of light throughout the campus.

Wood Cutter's Day

On account of the strike of coal workers last winter the university found itself faced with a fuel famine and was in iminent peril of being forced to close down its plant. Such a shut-down would have had serious results on academic work as well as projected the school year still further into the month of June which already is half taken by classes.

President Grose issued a call for one hundred and fifty men students to give one day to cutting wood in order to replenish the vanishing fuel supply and to enable the university to keep its doors open.

A canvas was made of the various halls and fraternity houses for men who would be willing to do this work. The response of the men was almost unanimous and great numbers had to be turned down after the required one hundred and fifty were found. At eight the following morning the whole crowd was found aboard the special car dressed for warmth and not for looks. The car transported them to the Stoner farm where the men, armed with saws and axes furnished by the university, soon made the place resound with blows. At noon the hungry but happy lumbermen were furnished with a big dinner by the university and, after eating to their hearts content, they went back to their work, reinforced by a number of men of the faculty who had come out after their morning classes.

When night fell, and the special arrived to take them back to Greencastle, the men had cut and corded more than one hundred and fifty cords of wood. This, along with a policy of coal preservation and closing certain buildings after noon, enabled the university to continue classes.

"Such", as one faculty member said, "is the inherent loyalty of this campus, that rises to meet every emergency".

Founders' and Benefactors' Day

The Annual celebration in honor of the founders and the benefactors of the university was held this year in Meharry Hall at three-thirty on Sunday, February 22.

DePauw has been the recipient of some of the most generous gifts that have been given to any university. The size of these gifts are evidenced by the number of beautiful memorial buildings on the campus and the two million dollars of endowment that now supports the school.

In honor of these gifts and their givers, the Founder's and Benefactor's day has been annually observed. The Honorable Albert J. Beveridge, a member of the class of '85, delivered the address. The university choir rendered special musical numbers.

W. A. A. Circus

On November 22nd, W. A. A. gave its first circus. It was a real circus, with peanuts, red balloons, and even a "Menagerie" with "elephants".

The several campus organizations had charge of the side-shows—a veritable "Great White Way" with only the mud lacking.

Pan-Hellenic sold the whistles, whips and all the other necessities of a good time. "Figures Made to Order" was the exhibit of the Madras Committee. Lake Geneva Club's "Al-Steese", the Most Intelligent Horse in the World" expressing very decided opinions entirely justified its owner's boast. "The Greatest Operation in the World" of Mortor Board was said to be quite realistic. Rector was able to bring together the "Seven Wonders of the Modern World". The Ancients would have blushed with shame at the thought of their "greatests" when compared to these.

Before and during the main show the Y. W. C. A. dispensed that most popular thing on the campus—food. From remote parts of the world came all the weird creatures of fact and fancy for the "Mysterious Cave", which was operated by Mansfield Hall. The "Pastoral Scene" of S. G. A. was a picture of Arcadia, where there wasn't any care beyond the day. W. A. A. carried time back to primeval days when Indian maids "floated gently o'er the waves" (to the tune of mandolin and ukelele) and kindred spirits watched their camp fires.

"Underneathe the moaning (?) hemlocks".

"The seventh daughter of the seventh daughter born on the bank of the Nile", under the protecting care of Madras, promised wonderful things for the future alumni of DePauw.

The "big show" was all such a performance should be. The world's two most famous tight-rope walkers graced the occasion. The clowns might well have instructed Barnum and Bailey's, and the animal stunts beggared description.

Surely, there wasn't ever a circus like it. Even the campus seemed to take on the air of a deserted circus lot, as we stumbled sleepily home over the ruts made by the departed show wagons, and gas lights flickered on the places from which they

> "—folded their tents like the Arabs,
> And as silently stole away".

The Student Council

The outstanding feature of the Student Council for the present year is the extension of representation in this body to a much wider group and to more varying phases of school activities. A seat in the council was extended to the presidents of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s, the Women's Self Governing Association; W. A. A.; the Editor of the Daily, representatives of unorganized men and women, student athletic manager, and the president of the "D" association.

With this increased representation the Student Council has become, in the truest sense of the word, an official representative body of the whole student body. It is vested with executive, legislative, and judicial powers, and has as its purpose the fulfillment of students' self government, and the furthering of all student enterprises. Its charter, its activities, and its long establishment have combined to give the Student Council unquestioned prestige.

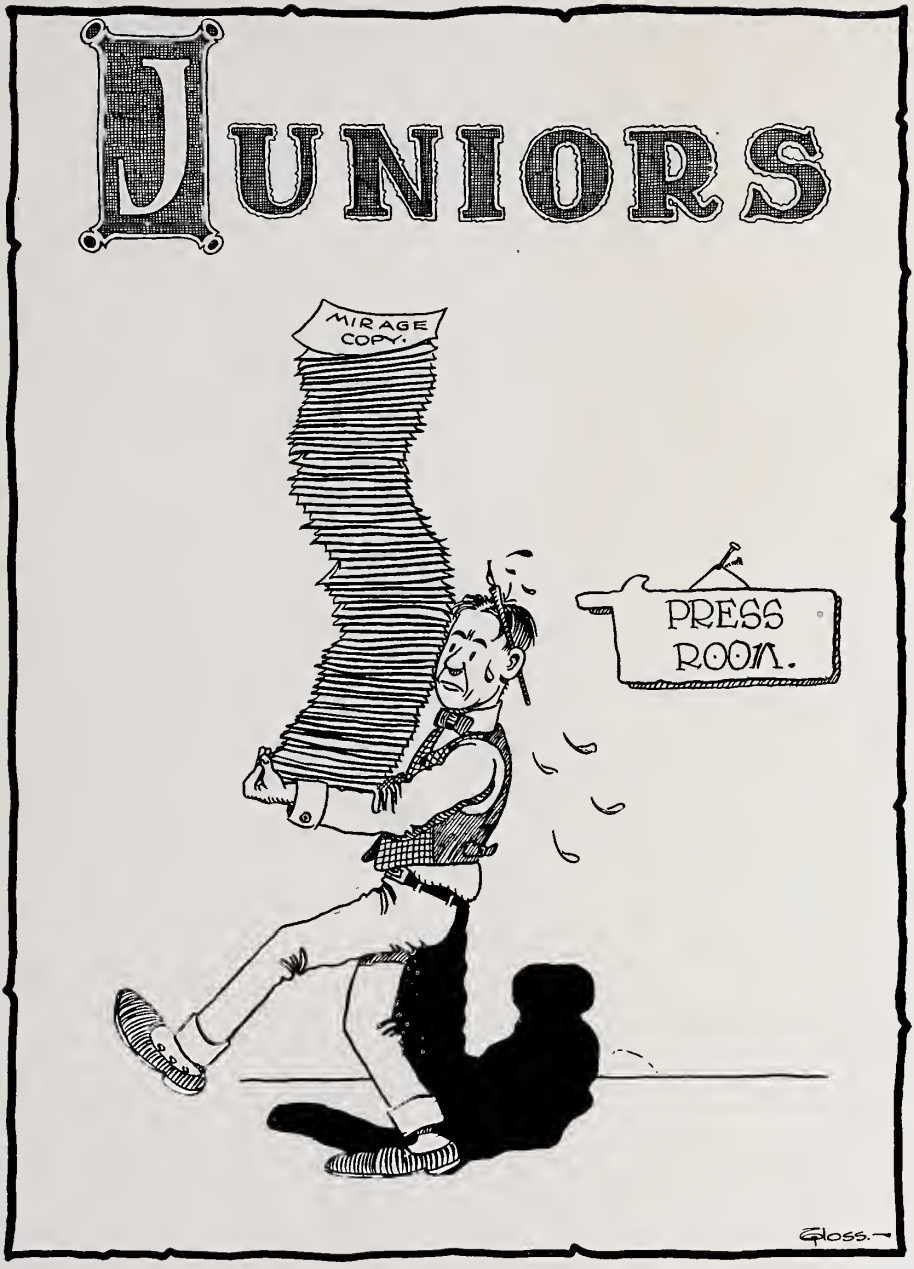
JUNIORS



The Mirage Project

It has long been the privilege of the Junior Class to publish the DePauw Year Book. This it has done down through thirty-five consecutive years, each class striving to make its book better than any before, so that its class may have the honor of having published the "best Mirage ever". This the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-one has, of course, tried to do. At the regular class elections the Juniors proceeded to elect, in addition to the regular officers, three men to take charge of the undertaking. From that time hence these men with a chosen staff of Juniors, as well as with the help of several persons outside of the class, have labored to make the nineteen twenty Mirage the best book that DePauw has ever had. How far they have succeeded is, as we have already suggested; to be determined by the readers. But what ever measure of success the book may have, the Junior class in general and the Mirage Board in particular wish to express here the most profound appreciation and thanks for the work of certain people in the making of the book. First of all, our thanks to those members of the staff who have done everything to make their own departments complete. Next to Ray Neff, Ernest Pickard, and Lavere Selfridge for their art contributions, to Mr. Louis Bonsib of the Indianapolis Engraving Company whose helpful suggestions and careful attention to our work have made possible the splendid engraving of this book; to Mr. J. O. Cammack and his assistants whose knowledge of handling the large amount of photographic material have made possible perfect satisfaction and prompt delivery of their work; to Miss Ellen Studley for her untiring efforts in subscription work; to Professors Longden, Pence, and Sweet for special contributions and censorship; to the Rogers Printing Company of Dixon, Illinois, whose work in the printing of the book we are sure will please the reader; to the Molloy Company of Chicago to whom we owe our cover and binding; and last but not least to the entire Junior Class for its whole-hearted support in backing the Mirage Project.

2500TH PROGRAM, 1920

The DePauw School of Music was founded in 1882-83 by John P. D. John, who, at the same time, was appointed Director, in addition to Conductor of the Chorus and Instructor in the Theory of Music.

During the early years of what was then known as Indiana Asbury University, there was no regular school of music. Private lessons, however, had been given by the wives of two of the faculty members, and it was not long until a course was offered under the name of the Department of Music in Indiana Asbury University. This, doubtless, may be considered as the true mother of the present school.

In 1881 Washington C. DePauw asked that he might be allowed to endow Indiana Asbury University, provided, of course, that the trustees were willing. A little latter, at the regular meeting which was held in August of that year, his request was granted; and, because of his great interest and beneficent gifts to the school, the name was changed to DePauw University.

Mr. DePauw was a man of the broadest interests, and thought that, in order to build a progressive school, courses other than those offered in the College of Liberal Arts should be added. He therefore requested John P. D. John, who was then the head of the Department of Mathematics, to organize a music school which should be a separate branch of the University. This was done, and as a result the present school was established, and James Hamilton Howe of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music was appointed as the first Dean. To him much credit is due for the success of this new department. He immediately set about to arrange a practical schedule and to secure proficient instructors. Soon six courses were offered. These included Pianoforte, Violin and other Orchestral Instruments, Pipe Organ, Voice Culture, Theory of Music, and Chorus. It is interesting to note that Miss Druley, who was then instructor of Pianoforte, is at the present time a member of the DePauw faculty.

The school flourished, but Dean Howe realized that there was something lacking in the way of organization. Thinking that a larger interest should be developed in the Art of Music, as well as a higher standard of work and scholarship, he called together a few of the young women students for the purpose of forming a society whose aim it should be to stimulate and further musical and social development. The Alpha Chi Omega Sorority was accordingly organized, and although it was not strictly a musical society, it nevertheless required that candidates for membership should take some work in the School of Music. This move proved to be very successful, and the efforts of the students, as well as those vitally concerned with the problems of the school, were united in a pronounced way.

In 1894, at the end of ten years of fruitful service, Dean Howe retired, leaving Mrs. Belle A. Mansfield of the faculty of Liberal Arts to take his place.

Little need be said to further the praise of Mrs. Mansfield's work, which stands today as a living monument to her untiring efforts. As one of the most capable of women, and beloved by all who knew her, she worked unceasingly until 1911, when, because of failing health, it was necessary for her to resign. In this year R. G. McCutchan of Baker University was appointed as Dean of the School of Music.

During the time that he has been with us, the school has greatly improved and the number of students has increased. Before 1912 no degree was given; but since then the degree of Bachelor of Music has been offered to those completing the required course. Dean McCutchan has thus succeeded in putting the DePauw School of Music on an equal basis with that of any other institution of similiar character. He has organized the University Choir, improved and augmented the courses of study, and secured the best instructors possible. In every way he has raised the standards of the department, and has encouraged the appreciation of Music in the University.

University Choir

The University Choir was organized in 1911 by Dean R. G. McCutchan. It consists of sixteen voices selected from the best talent in the school, and its work is both secular and sacred in character. As an organization it has acquired a permanent place in the University Service, and from a musical standpoint it is unrivaled by any other activity on the campus.

The Bay View Trip

The University Choir left Indianapolis for Bay View, Michigan August 1, 1919. Upon their arrival lodging was first secured. The men found their homes in Loud Hall, while the girls were comfortably situated on the upper floor of one of the cottages.

Many things happened during the three weeks stay. The choir practiced twice each day and only once was it given a vacation, this time being spent in a trip to Mackinac Island. Between practice periods each individual was free to do as he wished and leisure hours were usually occupied in swimming, rowing, tennis, or hiking to Petosky to the movies.

Every Sunday the choir sang at the morning services in the Assembly Hall. In the evening it furnished the music at the Beach Service and followed this with a Sacred Concert. Secular concerts were given on Wednesday nights and these proved to be as popular as those of the sacred character.

An unusually interesting experience was the wedding of Miss Catherine Allison and Mr. George Christie. The choir was on hand and took part in the bridal procession.

Dean McCutchan was always present for everything. He had as much fun as anyone and showed the choir the best of times.

(There is a rumor that a very thrilling episode happened that was in some way connected with bats. If anyone wishes to know the story, he will have to bribe one of the choir, for it is a profound secret and each one has sworn never to tell.)

University Orchestra

One of the popular organizations on the DePauw campus is the University Orchestra, conducted by Professor Howard J. Barnum.

Persons showing the required proficiency are eligible, and members are chosen from both the College of Liberal Arts and the School of Music.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club under the direction of Miss Gladys Jolley is one of the largest musical organizations on the campus. It has been very successful in all of its concerts given this year, and was one of the several musical organizations which took part in the two day's Musical Festival at Terre Haute.

Mens' Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club was reorganized after a lapse of five years. The number of voices were increased to thirty and this allowed the club to compete successfully with that of any other university. The addition of Miss Martha Trippeer as Soprano has proved to be quite an innovation. Twenty concerts were given this year covering a territory from Hammond, Indiana to Cincinnati, Ohio.

The unusual success of the organization has been due largely to the efforts of the director, Mr. Omar Wilson. He has been deeply interested in the club at all times and has brought to it an original talent which assured success. Prof. and Mrs. Barnum also share in the responsibility for the good work of the club.

The Male Quartettes

The two male quartettes which appear on the Glee Club programs this year never fail to pull down much applause and laughter from their audiences. They were unusually well balanced and sang well together. The picture above shows Sayre, Jones, Ogden and Courtney in the midst of one of their Negro Spirituals. A second quartette which likewise appeared a favorite on the Glee Club tours was composed of Herald Jones, Tenor; Ledger Ford, Tenor; Wilbur McMullen, Baritone; and James McAdams, Bass.

DePauw String Quartette

The DePauw String Quartette consisting of H. J. Barnum, First Violin; Warren Cook, Second Violin; Cecil Smith, Viola; and Herald Jones, Cello was reorganized this season after two years of inactivity due to the late war. It has appeared with the DePauw Glee Club in several Indiana cities and has been a feature of every program on which it has played.

The home concert of the Quartette was given Tuesday evening, March second, when the following program was played:

1. Variations on the Russian Hymn . . . . Veit-Zoellner

University Band

The University Band has taken a prominent place among students activities this year. Under the capable leadership of Howard Allen it has developed into an organization that would do credit to a much larger school. The band has taken a very important part in all athletic contests and in recognition of its services the members of the organization have been awarded sweaters by the University.

MIRAGE

The Asbury and DePauw Cadet Corps

(Extracts from "Indiana Asbury University" by Irving Brown.)

On June 29, 1870, the faculty had been authorized to establish a military department. Nothing was done until 1877, when Major C. W. Smith of Indianapolis was appointed to organize such a department. Captain D. D. Wheeler of the First Artillery, was detailed in June, by the Secretary of War to act as professor of military tactics. Drill was required only from freshmen and sophomores, but such was the enthusiasm among the students, that large numbers of the other classes and of the preparatory students volunteered. Captain Wheeler was superseded by Lieuteneant William R. Hamilton of the Fifth Artillery. On the afternoon of February 2, 1880, thirty or forty girls gathered together and formed a ladies' cadet company under the leadership of Lieutenant Hamilton. The young ladies of the military department even once thought of challenging the boys to a fight or shambattle, but not desiring to humble them by defeat they gave up the idea. It was under the direction of the military department that the present armory was first fitted up for use, in February, 1882.

A large military tournament was held in Indianapolis in July, 1882 at which time the Asbury Cadets won brilliant victories, and carried off a large share of the prizes. They won first place in the United States artillery drill, and were presented with medals bearing the mark of the prize artillery squad of the United States.

In 1883, Lieutenant Hamilton was relieved and Lieutenant Goe was appointed to take his place. In 1886, Lieut. Goe was succeeded by Lieut. William T. May. In the fall of the next year the girls got together for the second time in the history of the department, and organized three companies.

Some time prior to 1884, there was organized in the military department a squad of zouaves as a sort of side issue to the regular infantry and artillery. Dressed in the distinctive zouave uniform and performing an intricate and elaborate silent drill, they presented a very picturesque appearance, and formed a pleasing part of such exhibitions as the university undertook to give by way of advertising.

Lieut. May resigned in the fall of 1889, and was followed by Lieut. Williams then by Lieut. Lewis. (Lieut. Lewis later became a Major General and won the honor of breaking the Hindenburg Line in the recent war.) On May 26 an inspection was held by an officer of the Inspector General's Department and at this time detachment A dismounted the piece, limber, and carriage in the phenomenal time of twelve and one-half seconds and mounting them again in thirty-two and one half seconds, thus breaking the world's record. In November the Government presented the school with 150 Springfield rifles of the improved type and two new 3-inch breech-loading guns as a reward for the records made. This was the only university in the United States to have them.

In September 1897, Lieut. Ham was appointed, as it happened, the last commandant of the military department. On account of the Spanish-American War the guns were recalled in April, 1898, and Lieut. Ham was called to other duties. The department was suspended the next year.

Captain Martin H. Shute

The local Unit of the Reserve Officer's Training Corps is very fortunate in having as its commandant Captain Martin H. Shute, and to have as instructors in the department, Sergeants Wendt and Harris. Captain Shute is well qualified to train the local unit, being a West Point graduate with service in the Philippines and in France. The Captain ,who at the time had the temporary rank of lieutenant colonel, had just returned from France when, in October 1919, he was appointed to DePauw to relieve Captain John Frazee.

The two sergeants, who assist the commandant, both were in active service in the last war, while Sergeant Harris saw service in the Spanish-American and Philippine engagements.

Sergeant Harris

History of the Local Unit

The local unit of the R. O. T. C. was established in January, 1919, following the action of the Board of Trustees creating a Department of Military Science and Tactics. The War Department detailed Captain John L. Frazee as Professor of Military Science and Tactics. Captain Frazee later formed the unit into an infantry battalion of two companies with Paul Morrison as Cadet Major, Halford Udell as Cadet Adjutant, Robert Gipson as Cadet Quartermaster, Frank McIntosh and Henry Chillas as Cadet Captains, and J. D. Hogue and Ralph Graham as Cadet Lieutenants. The unit made excellent progress and the inspecting officer from the General Staff of the Army was very well pleased with the work of the unit.

Five of the men in school this year were at the Infantry R. O. T. C. Camp at Camp Custer last summer. These summer camps are essentially officer's training schools and the men are treated as candidate officers.

All of DePauw's men at the camp made excellent records for the school and themselves notwithstanding the fact that they were in competition with men from the leading universities and military schools of Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and West Virginia. The men served in various capacities as company and battalion officers and Morrison was selected as cadet colonel, in command of the regiment, at the review for Major General Winans, July 4. Morrison won a place on the rifle team that was sent to the National Matches held at Caldwell, N. J. during the month of August. The Camp Custer team won twentieth place in a field of seventy-five teams composed of the best marine, army, naval, and civilian marksmen in the country. This act won for the Custer men a nice group of medals.

Captain Frazee was relieved in October, 1919, by Captain Martin H. Shute, whose temporary rank at that time was Lieutenant colonel. Captain Shute had returned from France just prior to his assignment to DePauw. He is a graduate of West Point and because of his experience in the Philippines and France is well qualified to instruct the local unit. He has worked diligently all year to make the local unit one of the best in the country desiring to win for DePauw the glory and fame of the old Asbury Guards. His main purpose, however, is not military show but fundamental training for the students of DePauw. His interest in the unit and the school and his fairness to all has won for him the admiration of the cadets and those interested in the unit.

DePauw is extremely fortunate in having the services of First Sergeant Wendt and Sergeant Harris. Both were officers during the war. Wendt was formerly a student at the University of Cincinnati and has been taking work here this year. He won the admiration of all DePauw students by his work at quarterback and end on the football team last fall. Sergeant Harris is one of the best drill instructors of the regular army. The unit's proficiency in drill is due to a large extent to his thorough work. He is well qualified by his twenty-three years of experience in the army and his participation in the Spanish-American, Philippine, and World War. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for gallantry in action in the Philippines in 1899.

THE SMEARAGE

The Smearage is, as the name suggests, a little of everything about anybody and everybody; gathered by every means, from every source. The Smearage is, like Jim Jam Jems, a veritable volley of truth, and is no respector of persons. In the introductory chapters of this book, which we have facetiously called the Mirage, as a sort of pun on the name, Smearage, we presented people's pictures as they posed for them, after they had washed their faces, put on a collar, and combed their hair. We shall now attempt to get down to the real purpose of the book and show things as they really were. The editor of the few introductory chapters, which we have called the Mirage, wishes to state that if anyone, he or she, is offended by anything here presented, he should refer all complainants to Mr. George Bernard Shaw, who resides in Salt Lake City or to Brigham Young, whose present address is elsewhere, since both he and the joke editor will probably be gone on business at the time of publication.

To begin with, the Smearage wishes to present, through its dramatic editors

Beware

The Smearage takes a great delight in presenting here this wonderful life-size oil painting of Mister Ted Proud the photo editor, and official collector of scandalous pictures. He is here shown chatting with one of the many family skeletons which he unearthed during his collecting. Little did the unsuspecting public know that it was being constantly watched, during the past few months, by a corp of camera hounds who have recorded every move made. As the old saying goes, "Murder will out", so if any of the gentle readers have done anything shady in the past days they may rest assured that it is accurately recorded in our rogue's gallery. In the next few pages we are reproducing a few of the milder pictures which we have on stock, but be it here known, that for lack of space and by reason of censorship we haven't begun to do the thing justice, and that if anyone gets gay with we, the management, we shall be tempted to strike off a few copies of these refreshing pictures of their life history and distribute them throughout the campus. Beware".

Dear Sir:

The Mirage Board wishes to express its thanks and appreciation for your excellent work in connection with the 1920 Year Book.

We feel that the photographic work is of the highest order, and that the promptness with which it was executed had made early delivery of the book possible. The systematic way in which you handled the large amount of photographic material and panelling relieved us of a great deal of worry and bother.

Last of all we want to thank you for your helpful suggestions and courtesy accorded to us during the time we were working together. Perfect satisfaction is the least we can say.

Toasty Treat

For melt-in-your-mouth goodness, eat Butter-Kist Popcorn. It's toasted after it has been popped—then each flaky white grain is kist with butter. It makes a treat you'll never beat.

Butter Kist Pop Corn

Made on the famous Butter-Kist machine. Untouched by hands. The machine does it all—pops, toasts, and butters the corn. Butter-Kist is pure and wholesome. Buy it from the merchants with Butter-Kist machines.

THANKS

We are thankful that in the regular order of our yearly program, there is time to stop and think of the many things we have to be thankful for.

We are above all else thankful for your liberal patronage, and for the hearty commendation of our numerous patrons.

The Cammack Studio

Copied from the diary of a student.

"Wishing to communicate with a former brother in arms, I obtained the services of the noted medium, Professor Clement, who, after absorbing a couple of hamburgers and a few cones at my expense, immediately went into a seance.

He reported—

"Hi, Joe. I'm starved for news from down there this year. How is the old place getting along?" "Is the W. S. G. A. still there?"

"Yes, one date a week is allowed, if properly chaperoned".

"Still have R. O. T. C.?"

"Yep, drill 18 hours a week and get one hour credit".

"Point system going big now"?

"Yea, very much so, 320 points now required to escape with a sheepskin".

"By the way Joe, who is president of the college now".

"Why Miss Alvord".

Deep and heart rending sobs came to my ears, and at last, a choking voice whispered, full of sympathy and pathos, "Oh Joe, and to think they call this Hell".

The Last Copy

This is the Editor's Limousine.
The animal is symbolic of the office of the Ed.
When the official O. K. goes on this Copy,
He, (the Ed., not the animal), is going to climb in
And drive some place and follow the example of
The cat.
But seriously, it is with a feeling of regret
That we come to the end.
It has meant fuss, and stew, and midnight oil,
And our professors look funny at us
When we register blankness.
As for personal appearance—well, that never was much.
But we used to shave once in awhile.
Nevertheless it has been a captivating job,
This job of trying to picture DePauw, and of Trying to get your name spelled right. (Didn't we?)
And all we regret is that we didn't have more time
To make it a better book.
We hope it will be worth the effort.
And worthy of DePauw.
This is the last copy.
Goodbye.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.
